

Cultural Learning Program 2018

On September 12th, 2018, the Faculty of Science, Mahidol University (MUSC) through its Office of International Cooperation held an activities called ‘Cultural Learning Program’ for international students at Museum Siam, Bangkok. The goal is to enhance international students’ participatory learning Thai culture through various the activity and to strengthen relationship among MUSC’s international students.

Museum Siam now presents the exhibition in the name "Decoding Thainess". It has been designed to be unique in terms of content development and storytelling through the use of modern museum media we are familiar with and can be commonly seen today. It inspires visitors to think further and connect themselves with the past. Interactive presentations at the exhibition also encourage visitors’ deeper immersion in activities and as a result create better understanding as well as an unusual museum experience with a perfect combination of knowledge sharing and fun.

27 participants are enjoy learning Thai culture through exhibitions with exotic forms of presentation such as mixed media technology.
